

When will the Life Community finally "break free" of Komen and Planned Parenthood?

Kelsey Hazzard, president of Secular Pro-Life, wrote a recent LifeNews article highlighting Komen Race For the Cure's newest survey. It clearly exposes Komen's continuing insecurities. The survey essentially boils down to the type of note passed in a fourth grade classroom: "Do you love me? Check YES or NO". Miss Hazzard closes the article by stating, "This survey shows that Komen is still listening. We must reach out and let them know that we will be there for them if and when they finally get the courage to break free."

I wonder: Why exactly is the Life community still waiting around for Komen? This isn't the first article that I have read in which Komen, as the main character in Pilgrim's Progress, struggles along and is finally redeemed. Is that what you are waiting for?

Why?

We are WAY PAST PINK. Way past. There is no final spark of goodness in the pepto pink party tent. Not where life is concerned. We are talking about Life here. Not cancer. Understand this: Komen did not switch horses. They ride the pale horse. Always have.

Komen and Planned Parenthood are not friends of the Life community. Komen has not been wrongly accused. Even now, in this silly survey, they do not search for a way to end their repulsive relationship with Planned Parenthood's killers. They ride into darkness together: "And I looked and behold a pale horse and his name that sat on him was Death and Hell followed with him..." (Revelations 6:8 KJV).

Komen's reins remain in Planned Parenthood Advisor, Nancy Brinker's hands. What kind of advice can ever be of value to an organization like Planned Parenthood, if the advice does not begin with the words, "STOP KILLING OUR CHILDREN."

Komen buckled to the Block of 26 Senators pushing the current Administration's abortifacients through its deadly partner Planned Parenthood. Make no mistake these are tied in a bundle of three and as some of you may know, "a cord of three strands is not easily broken." (Ecclesiastes 4:12 KJV)
